WHAT DO NURSES WANT?

RECRUITMENT AND EMPLOYMENT

In 2018, we surveyed 563 student and qualified nurses at six Nursing Times careers roadshows across England, to find out their views on what would attract them to a new role and what factors would make them want to stay in a role.

MOST IMPORTANT FACTORS WHEN LOOKING FOR A NEW ROLE

Opportunities for development

Use our People Performance Management toolkit to learn about ways to highlight development to your potential new staff. www.nhsemployers.org/ppm

Opportunities for progression

“More progression and training opportunities for senior roles. Experienced nurses are highly valuable in higher clinical roles.”

Location

Our reward communications guide offers tips on ways to put location at the forefront of recruitment. www.nhsemployers.org/rewardcomms

Pay

“As a student nurse looking for an employer, incentives to join are good, especially ones that relieve a bit of financial burden such as paying for your first year of NMC registration.”

Opportunities for flexible working

We have a webpage focusing on flexible working, which includes a webinar and different examples of best practice from across the service. www.nhsemployers.org/flexibleworkforce

The values of the employer

Our Inspire, Attract and Recruit toolkit contains information and resources relating to values based recruitment, including a toolkit to check how ready your organisation is. www.nhsemployers.org/inspireattractrecruit
