

Supporting early return to work

OH providers should have an agreed process that supports NHS staff whose capability is limited by an acute health issue to receive interventions that will allow them to resume work activities more quickly for the benefit of their patients.

This could mean returning to their normal duties, returning to an adjusted form of their position or redeployment to an alternative post.